Ask your partner:

- Would you like to visit the Forbidden City?
- What do you think you can see there?

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about places and attractions.
- I can make strong recommendations.
- I can ask and report about things and events.

Let's Explore!

Let's learn about The Forbidden City

* This is the most popular tourist attraction in China.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

The Forbidden City sits in the center of the ancient city of Beijing. This vast palace was home to 24 different Chinese emperors. The Ming and Qing dynasties lived there until 1912. It is now renamed as the 'Palace Garden'.

The palace has over 9,000 rooms in 800 buildings! The Forbidden City is the largest palace complex in the world. The workers made foundations from stone. They built the walls with bricks and they constructed most of the buildings using wood. A 164-foot-wide moat encircles the city. There is also a 33-foot-high purple wall.

The Forbidden City is located directly to the north of Tiananmen Square. You must enter the palace through the square. You have to visit this amazing site and you must take lots of photographs!

Learning Points

Must vs. Should

You can use the modals must and should to give recommendations.

Must is a very strong recommendation. You can use have to instead of must. Have to is used as an obligation. You can use "have to" when you speak. Should is not as strong. It is a suggestion.

Examples:

- You must visit this castle!
- You should go on a boat ride.
- You shouldn't forget your camera.
- You mustn't forget to take a picture outside.

The Simple Past Tense

When you travel, you ask and report about things you see. You can use the Simple Past tense to report about things you saw or didn't see.

Remember, there are regular and irregular verbs.

Examples:

- This vast palace was the home for 24 different emperors.
- The Ming and Qing dynasties lived there until 1912.
- The workers made foundations from stone.
- They built the walls with brick and they constructed most of the buildings using wood.
