Let's Start!

You must have a cup of tea!

Learning Outcome

Identify health problems and ways of staying healthy, and use them in a limited range of social situations.

Can Do Statements

- I can ask and report about things and events.
- I can talk about common health problems.
- I can make strong recommendations.

Ask your partner:

- What do you do when you feel sick?
- Do you drink anything when you feel sick? What? Why?

Let's Explore!

Sally doesn't feel so good! What does the chef* recommend?

* A "chef" is a person who cooks in a restaurant.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Sally: I don't feel very well.

Chef: What's wrong?

Sally: I think there was too much spice in that dish.

Chef: Oh dear, that's not good.

Sally: My heart! I have heartburn!

Chef: Here, here. You must have some ginger tea. It absorbs acid in the stomach and helps calm the nerves that contribute to heartburn. I'm going to make you a cup. It's easy.

Sally: Ginger? I don't like ginger.

Chef: It gets rid of the heartburn.

Sally: Alright, I guess I can try.

Chef: You have to drink lots.

Sally: How do I make this?

Chef: To make ginger tea, you must add one teaspoon of freshly grated ginger to one cup of boiling water. Let it steep for a few minutes. Drink this herbal tea several times a day.

Learning Points

Talking About Health Problems

Explaining a problem

You can use these sentences to describe your health problems:

I am not feeling well. / I don't feel well.

I have a cough.

I have a stomach ache.

I have heartburn.

Symptoms

Symptoms are feelings of illness or discomfort.

Diagnosis

A diagnosis is when a doctor tells you the medical name of your problem.

Must vs. Should

You can use the modals must and should to give recommendations.

Must is a very strong recommendation. You can use have to instead of must. Have to is used as a strong obligation.

Should is not as strong. It is a suggestion.

Examples:

- You must drink some tea.

You have to drink lots of herbal tea.

You should add one teaspoon of sugar.
